Interesting Stuff

Reactive dyes

Reactive dyes first appeared commercially in 1956, after their invention in 1954 by Raittee and Stephens at the Imperial Chemical Industries Dyestuffs Division site in Blackley, Manchester, United Kingdom. Reactive dyeing is now the most important method for the coloration of cellulosic fibres.

Vat/Yarn dyes are an ancient class of dyes, based on the natural dye, indigo, which is now produced synthetically. Yarn dyed, means the cotton yarn is dyed before weaving the fabric and is bleach resistant.
